

Hidden Retreats provides a homeworking option to both experienced travel professionals and those with a passion and determination to enter this exciting industry. Whether you are new to homeworking or already have an established homeworking business, we will assist in developing your existing skills and providing new ones to maximise your earning potential. We welcome those who want to learn the trade and manage customers from end to end but also those who want to service their network of clients with a more hands on approach from head office.

We offer a bespoke induction and ongoing training along with round-the-clock sales and administration support. Our head office team are on hand throughout the training journey and afterwards to guide and advise you on running your business. There are no initial set up costs and all your equipment will be provided for you so the logistics are taken care of.

A generous commission split is part of the Hidden Retreats package as well as uncapped earning potential. We are an ABTA and ATOL bonded travel company so your customers have that peace of mind that their money is protected. As well as full training on all our in-house systems, access to our worldwide network of suppliers- we also provide continuous marketing and business development support.

Being self-motivated and eager to learn will open up this luxury travel world into a life changing career opportunity. You can get to know your clients and take pride in creating bespoke itineraries covering boutique hotels, hidden beach retreats, private islands and lavish properties across the world. Discover a new way to work with Hidden Retreats.
